JEAN BEDINI, TURNIP CATCHER, AT GAYETY

"Ziegfeld of Burlesque" Headliner at Popular Playhouse This Week.

Jean Bedini, the Ziegfeld of burlesque, is playing his annual engagement at the Gayety Theater this week. Mr. Percy Hammond, the able dramatic critic of the Chicago Tribune, conferred the above title upon Mr. Bedini.

Originality is often the keynote of success. In all of Mr. Bedini's productions there is that subtle "something different" that makes them stand out above the shows of the burlesque wheel. There is never anything that would offend the most fastidious person.

most fastidious person.

The comedy and humor is always clean and wholesome.

The hit of this year's production is the foreign troup of acrobats. They are billed under the name of "Ignatz Pluto Troupe." According to the press agent of the show, they were brought to this country only after an exciting chase through the wilds of Asia Minor and at through the wilds of Asia Minor and at great expense.

Mr. Bedini probably is best known as the man who catches turnips, thrown from high buildings, upon a fork held between his teeth. Mr. Bedini first did this trick at Bristol, England, nearly twenty years ago. It started him on the road to success and wealth.
